

IMF: Political uncertainty
biggest risk to RP economy

By Envy C. Hernandez and Michael J. Sauter

THE INTERNATIONAL MONETARY FUND (IMF) has released its annual report on the Philippine economy, and it says that the biggest risk to the country's economic growth is political uncertainty.

The IMF report, which is the first of its kind, says that the Philippine economy is growing at a steady pace, but it is still facing many challenges. The report says that the biggest risk to the country's economic growth is political uncertainty, which could lead to a loss of investor confidence and a decline in economic activity.

From whistles to guitars, traffic enforcers go musical

Manila (PNA) — A group of police officers in Manila has started a new trend of playing musical instruments while on duty. The officers, who are part of the 1st Police Division, have started playing guitars and whistles during their patrol.

The group has been playing for about a month and has received a lot of praise from the public. The officers say that playing music helps them relax and makes their patrol more enjoyable.

The group is called the "Police Band" and consists of about 10 officers. They play a variety of instruments, including guitars, whistles, and drums.

The group has been playing at various events and has received a lot of praise from the public. The officers say that playing music helps them relax and makes their patrol more enjoyable.

According to the officers, playing music helps them relax and makes their patrol more enjoyable. They also say that it helps them connect with the public and makes their job more interesting.

IMF: Political uncertainty biggest risk to RP economy

Manila (PNA) — The International Monetary Fund (IMF) has warned that political uncertainty is the biggest risk to the Philippines' economy.

The IMF's latest report on the Philippines' economy states that while the country's economic growth has been strong, political uncertainty remains a major concern.

The report says that the Philippines' economy is strong, but it is still vulnerable to political uncertainty. The IMF advises the government to maintain a stable political environment to ensure continued economic growth.

The British approach to offshore wind is a useful case study for the U.S. because of the country's long experience with offshore wind. The British approach is based on a combination of government support and private industry investment. The British government has provided a variety of incentives, including tax breaks and grants, to encourage private investment in offshore wind. The British government has also established a regulatory framework that is designed to facilitate the development of offshore wind. The British approach has been successful in attracting private investment and in developing a large offshore wind industry. The British approach is a good example of how government support and private industry investment can be used to develop a new energy source.

Oakwood mutineers fire lawyer

By Dona Pazzibugan

SIX OF THE 29 ALLEGED CORE LEADERS OF the July 27, 2003, Oakwood mutiny have fired their lawyer due to "conflict of interest," raising speculation they had entered into a deal with the Arroyo administration.

Lawyer Roel Pulido, who had been on the case from the start, said in an interview he was told by the group that they no longer needed his services. He refused to disclose the specific reason they were letting him go, citing client-lawyer confidentiality.

"I was asked by six of the core leaders to step down due to a potential conflict of interest," Pulido said, adding he did not know if the six had entered into a plea bargain with the prosecution. Neither would he say what could possibly cause the conflict of interest.

Any such deal, however, should extend to all 29 so-called "Magdalo" leaders and the 67 junior officers who also joined the mutiny, otherwise it would be illegal, Pulido said.

He said he had heard that the six officers would be issuing a manifesto in support of President Macapagal-Arroyo, "but I don't know anything about it."

Pulido said it was Capt. Gerardo Gambala who asked him on behalf of the other five co-defendants to withdraw as their counsel both in the coup d'etat case before the Makati Regional Trial Court and in the general court-martial.

"It's nothing personal; we have a conflicting stand with the (rest of the) group," Pulido quoted Gambala as telling him.

The five others were Captains Milo Maestrecampo, Albert Baloloy and Laurence Louis Somera and First Lieutenants Rex Bolo and Florentino Somera Jr.

Pulido formally withdrew as counsel for the six officers before the Makati court on Wednesday.

He said he might also withdraw as counsel for eight other Magdalo officers in the court-martial.

A majority of the 96 Magdalo officers were "disappointed" but respected their colleague's decision, Pulido said. He claimed that the military leadership wanted him out of the picture but he could not say why.

"They've been talking to my clients in the past. One of their conditions is that they terminate (my services)," he said.

Asked what the rebel officers were promised in return for dropping him as their attorney, Pulido replied: "The promise is aayusin ang kaso nila (their case will be fixed)."

Last year, Gambala, Maestrecampo and four other core leaders -- Captains Nicanor Faeldon and Gary Alejano and Lieutenants Senior Grade James Layug and Antonio Trillanes IV -- apologized to the President.

Even so, they were not allowed to enter into a plea bargain, a privilege that was extended to the 184 enlisted personnel who joined the 20-hour long mutiny.

Pulido said he did not agree with the apology, but respected the officers' decision and continued to represent them.

Talk on 'troubled' RP-US ties set

NEW ASPECTS OF THE TROUBLED HISTORY of Philippine-American relations will be the focus of a lecture by a visiting expert on the century-old relationship.

Dr. Sharon Delmendo, a former Fulbright Exchange Professor and a full professor of English at St. John Fisher College in Rochester, New York, will speak on "Self-reliance is the key to progress: The Paradox of Sovereignty in Philippine and American Nationalisms" on Oct. 24, 2-4 pm, at the Social Science Audiovisual Room of Ateneo de Manila University in Loyola Heights, Quezon City.

The lecture is being sponsored by the Philippine Fulbright Scholars Association (PFSA) in cooperation with AdMU.

Last year, Delmendo published "The Star Entangled Banner: 100 Years of America in the Philippines." She had been Fulbright Professor of American Studies at De La Salle University Manila from 1995 to 1996.

According to Amazon.com, her book's title comes from "a ceremony held in 1996 to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of formal Philippine independence, [when] the United States flag was being lowered while the Philippine flag was being raised, and the two became entangled.

"In 'The Star-Entangled Banner,' Sharon Delmendo demonstrates that this incident is indicative of the longstanding problematic relationship between the two countries. When faced with a national crisis or a compelling need to reestablish its autonomy, each nation paradoxically turns to its history with the other to define its place in the world.

"Each chapter of the book examines a separate issue in this linked history: the influence of Buffalo Bill's show on the proto-nationalism of José Rizal, who is often described as the 'First Filipino'; the portrayal of the Philippines in an early colonial era American children's book; 'Back to Bataan,' a World War II movie starring John Wayne; 'Viajero' by E. Sionil José; and the US military's retention of the Balangiga Bells, which were taken as war booty during the Philippine-American War.

OPINION

1. Staphylococcus aureus (ATCC 12228) was grown in 100 ml of TSB medium containing 100 µg/ml penicillin, 100 µg/ml streptomycin, and 100 µg/ml nystatin. The cells were harvested by centrifugation at 5000g for 10 min, washed with distilled water, and resuspended in 10 ml of distilled water. The cells were then lysed by sonication and the lysate was centrifuged at 1000g for 10 min. The supernatant was then centrifuged at 10000g for 10 min and the pellet was resuspended in 10 ml of distilled water. Figure 1 is a line graph showing the effect of the concentration of the inhibitor on the rate of polymerization. The x-axis is labeled 'log [I]' and ranges from -1 to 1. The y-axis is labeled 'log Rp' and ranges from 0 to 1. Four data series are plotted: (a) open circles, (b) open squares, (c) open triangles, and (d) open diamonds. All series show a linear decrease in log Rp as log [I] increases. Series (a) has the steepest negative slope, followed by (b), (c), and (d) in descending order of slope steepness.

For RP, CME use means P23B/year in savings

By Joseph L. Tan

THE PHILIPPINE EXCHANGE (PSE) is expected to save P23 billion annually by the end of the 10-year period, according to a study of its proposed computerized trading system.

The study, titled "The PSE Computerized Trading System," was prepared by a team of experts from the PSE and the Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE).

The study found that the PSE's current trading system is inefficient and costly, and that the proposed computerized system would significantly reduce costs and improve efficiency.

The study also found that the proposed system would allow for faster trading and better price discovery.

The PSE is currently in the process of implementing the proposed system, and expects to complete the project by the end of 1995.

The PSE is a member of the International Federation of Futures and Options Exchanges (IFO), and is expected to become a full member in 1995.

The PSE is also a member of the Asian Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) and the Asian Development Bank (ADB).

Telcos take Sun suit to higher court

By Corina L. Ramos

THE PHILIPPINE TELECOMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION (PTC) has filed a motion to dismiss a lawsuit filed by Sun Microsystems, Inc. (Sun) against the PTC.

The lawsuit, filed in the PTC, alleged that the PTC had violated Sun's intellectual property rights by allowing other companies to use Sun's technology.

The PTC, however, argued that the lawsuit was frivolous and that it had no legal basis.

The PTC also argued that the lawsuit was an attempt to interfere with its regulatory functions.

The PTC's motion to dismiss was filed in the PTC on October 10, 1994.

The PTC is a government agency responsible for regulating the telecommunications industry in the Philippines.

Sun Microsystems is a leading provider of computer hardware and software, and is a member of the PTC.

The PTC is also a member of the International Telecommunication Union (ITU) and the Asian Telecommunications Union (ATU).
